3 Now let's try writing into your web page using jQuery. In the first paragraph (\<p\>) tag inside the \<div\> tag, add id="title". Your first \<p\> tag will now look like this.

```
Ling Ling the Panda
```

4 In the second paragraph (\<p\>) tag inside the \<div\> tag, add an id attribute and name it as "description". Your code will now look like this."

```
This is the description
```

5 Write the following code into your current script code. Save your code and refresh your webpage.

```
$("#name_submit").click(function() {
    $("#name").html($("#name_box").val());
    $("#description").html($("#description_box").val());
});
```

6 In your browser, type a new name and description in the input boxes then click the submit button.
